Highlight:

Initiated work to develop a Cochrane-Campbell Handbook for Qualitative Evidence Synthesis with Wiley

Research and development

- GRADE CERQual celebrates 10 years since publication of the first use and we have conducted a review of the application and fidelity of CERQual, inc. projects on identifying dissemination bias in qualitative research, further developing our understanding of methodological limitations in primary studies and development of the CAMELOT tool for use with CERQual and ongoing CERQual training activities.

Best practice and guidance

- Published many papers on reporting of and methods for qualitative evidence synthesis
- Developing plans for a webinar series with Cochrane Training

Methods implementation

- Work closely with Cochrane Groups, such as Effective Practice and Organisation of Care, who undertake a large volume of reviews and provide continued input from title registration through to publication of the qualitative reviews
- Provided feedback on Cochrane's new Editorial Manager system
- Available to support Cochrane Reviews
